

DR. CRABBE'S CAR CUTS A MAN'S HEAD OFF

Runs "Wild" Down Hilly Street in Denver; Kills One Man and Injures Others

Friends here have received news of a fatal accident in Denver, Colo., caused by the automobile belonging to Dr. J. G. Crabbe, president of the Colorado State Teachers' College, and former president of Eastern Kentucky State Normal School here, and before that State Superintendent of Public Instruction of Kentucky.

It appears that Dr. Crabbe's machine, which had been left parked at the curb on a street, on a hill, slipped its brakes in some way and ran down the hill. It struck a man, knocked him down and completely decapitated him, causing instant death, of course. Two women were also struck by the car in its mad flight and were seriously injured.

There was no one in the car at the time, and it appears to have been standing by the curb for some time before it got started on its wild and fatal flight. No blame attached to Dr. Crabbe, of course, for the unfortunate affair, his friends say. Greeley, where his school is located, is but a short distance from Denver and in easy motoring distance. The Argonaut Hotel, where several Richmond people have spent the summer, stands on the hill, down which the car ran wild, it is said.

A dispatch from Denver to the New York Times had the following about the accident:

William R. Calliope, candidate for United States senator last November, was decapitated and two girls were injured when an automobile belonging to Dr. J. G. Crabbe, president of the State Teachers' College, ran away down Great street to Broadway. The girls, Lorraine Burman and Matilda Kilman, both 14 years old, were taken to the county hospital, where physicians say they will probably die.

Calliope was overtaken by the runaway car as he was crossing Colfax avenue at Broadway. The car knocked him down and one of the big wheels completely severed his head from the body, which was horribly mutilated.

The automobile went on and hit a light delivery wagon and came to a stop when it collided with a street car without injuring the passengers.

Dr. Crabbe told the police that he left his car locked, braked and dead when he and his wife entered the Argonaut hotel shortly before the accident. His statement has been disputed and the police department is having experts examine the car to determine the truth of Dr. Crabbe's assertions.

FRUIT MAY BE HELPED, NOT HURT

The predicted frosts of Tuesday and Wednesday nights didn't materialize after all; at least not in this section. It is still claimed that fruit is safe. Hillemeier, the famous horticulturist and weather expert, told the Lexington Leader that if it does not get cold enough to frost the present cold snap will be very beneficial to all fruit and garden crops, since it will hold them back and probably save them from a later cold spell when they might be in a more susceptible condition. The chill will also have a beneficial effect on wheat he said, by tending to toughen the young plants. "It does not end up with a damaging frost, this cold snap will be very beneficial to all growing crops rather than detrimental," Mr. Hillemeier said.

FERRYMAN ASHER AN INGENIOUS FISHERMAN

Will Asher, popular ferryman at Boonesboro, is a devotee of fishing. Mr. Asher has his ferry duties to perform, of course, and, therefore, cannot give all of his time to the sport of Izaak Walton. However, he is a resourceful and ingenious man, and now he catches fish on a trot line and compels Mr. Fish to inform him of the capture by means of ringing a bell, so that Mr. Asher will not have to spend so much time waiting for 'em to bite. The trot line, it seems, is attached to a limb of a tree, near Mr. Asher's home close to the ferry. The limb is a little one, and on it is tied a small bell. When a fish takes hook, line and sinker, as the saying is, the bell rings and Mr. Asher leisurely drags the limby boy in. It's quite an idea, all who have seen it work are unanimous in asserting. Mr. Asher caught a 35-pound cat fish Tuesday and the big fellow almost rang the bell off. Can you beat it?

$5,000 JUDGMENT OVER TOBACCO SALES

A jury in the Garrard circuit court gave a judgment this week for about $5,000 against W. E. Luxon, Irvine Hume and G. B. Turley in connection with the purchase and sale of tobacco bought on the Lancaster market last season by W. P. Kincaid, a former tobacco buyer. The latter claimed that the local men authorized him to buy the weed for them and they would back him. They claimed they had not authorized him to buy but one crop. When his checks were turned back, the Lancaster house instituted suit for the difference in the price of the tobacco when it had to be sold. The local men will immediately appeal the case to the court of appeals at Frankfort.

POLICE ARE HUNTING AUTO TIRE THIEVES

Police are hunting for Babe Nelson and Chenualt Benton, colored, on a grand larceny charge. They are accused of breaking in to the Richmond vulcanizing plant of E. S. Siler on Estill avenue, across from the depot, and stealing $93 worth of automobile tire casings. It is charged that a negro named Cosby or Williams took the tires to the coal house at Jim Alverson's place, near B and Irvine streets, and that Alverson put one tire on his car and sold the other two to Tom Miller, colored barber, at $8 each. Alverson is charged with knowingly receiving stolen goods. He says he knew nothing of the tires, but that the two men sought brought them to his place and asked him to sell them for them. He will have a hearing in police court on Friday night at 7 o'clock. Nelson and Benton are both said to have left town.

NOVEL VIOLATION OF MOTOR LAW, CHARGE

A peculiar angle to violation of the motor license law will be heard before Police Judge G. Murray Smith when the case against Bennett Burruss, of the Baldwin section is called. Burruss is charged with operating a car without having it licensed; also with using a license issued to another car. It is alleged that he came to town in his mother's Buick, with license plates on it that were issued for a Ford car owned by his brother.

Columbus, O., March 24.—A test suit to determine what authority the Federal Railroad Labor Board may have in backing up its ruling that railroads may not reduce wages until after a conference with employees, was filed in federal court here today by attorneys representing 1,200 maintenance-of-way employees of four subsidiary lines of the New York Central. This is said to be the first attempt in the country to get a court's interpretation of the powers of the Labor Board.

BELOVED PRIEST GOES TO HIS FINAL REWARD

Cardinal Gibbons Passes Away at His Home in Baltimore in His 76th Year

(By Associated Press)

Baltimore, March 24.—James Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore and Primate of the American Catholic Church, died at the archiepiscopal residence here today after a prolonged illness which mainly affected his heart. He was in his 76th year. Beside the Cardinal's bed stood every member of his household and when it was seen the distinguished prelate had passed away, the priests fell to their knees and began reciting prayers for the dead.

A telegram was immediately sent Pope Benedict. It is expected most of the church dignitaries in the United States will attend the funeral which is not expected for several days.

Story of His Life

Active service for more than half a century in the interests of his country as well as his church is closed by the death of James Cardinal Gibbons. At the celebration, in 1911, of the 25th anniversary of his elevation to the cardinalate, His Eminence, out of all the tributes paid him, expressed himself as most affected by that from William Howard Taft, his intimate friend, and then President, who said:

"Through his long and useful life Cardinal Gibbons has spared no effort in the cause of good citizenship and the uplifting of his fellowmen."

"You have portrayed your subject, not I fear, as he is, but as he should be," responded the Cardinal. "One merit only can I claim and that is an ardent love for my native country and her political institutions. I consider the republic of the United States one of the most precious heirlooms ever bestowed on mankind down the ages. It is the duty and should be the delight of every citizen to strengthen and perpetuate our government by observance of its laws and by the integrity of the public life."

Cardinal Gibbons, as senior Bishop of the church, wielded a strong influence outside as well as within the United States. The confidant of three Popes, he made several important tours to Rome the last in August, 1914, a few days after the opening of the war to elect the successor to Pius X. He arrived too late, however, to participate in the ceremony that elevated Benedict to the Pontificate.

Upon returning to the United States he visited President Wilson, informed the latter of affairs in Europe and discussed means to bring about peace. The Cardinal was strongly interested in the affairs of the church in Mexico during the troublesome times in that country and declared that he feared that fighting would never cease under the Carranza regime. It was largely as a result of his efforts that the condition of the clergy and nuns of Mexico was ameliorated.

Cardinal Gibbons was active in his work for the Allies in the war and in a letter written to the Catholics of the archdiocese of New York in 1917 when the United States entered the conflict, urged the fullest support of the government. A few months previously, he sent $10,000 to the American Committee in London, for the relief of the Belgians, one of the many notable instances of his benevolence. In a sermon at Baltimore, in 1918, he praised the speech to Lloyd-George and said that Germany's war aims would fall. About the same time he explained Pope Benedict's war policy, an article which so pleased the Pope that he ordered it translated and published broadcast. In it he asserted sympathy with the Allied aim of winning the war for "permanent peace."

To achieve this result he also expressed opposition to a cessation of hostilities when Austria made fresh overtures.

Celebrating his 50th anniversary as Bishop in Baltimore, on October 21, 1918, an event attended by ecclesiastics from all over the world, he received among many other gifts the decoration of Grand Officer of the Legion of Honor from France. Italy also decorated him. A month later he joined with former President Roosevelt, both of whom had been friends for years, in a message of cheer to the American Expeditionary forces. On June 30, 1919, he observed his 33rd anniversary as Cardinal-Archbishop and the 50th year of his priesthood. Cardinal Mercier, the heroic primate of Belgium, visited him on this occasion.

The Cardinal's views on political, economic and sociological questions were frequently sought by newspapers. In interviews he endorsed the plan for the establishment of the Jewish Homeland in Palestine, he opposed the government ownership of public utilities, maintained that prohibition meant "the invasion of the home and mental practice," condemned divorce, praised the work of the Salvation Army in France, favored American military training, importuned the clergy to fight Bolshevism, demanded that the Turk should be driven from Europe and appealed to the public support of America's entrance into the League of Nations. At a convention of Irish Nationalists in Philadelphia he expressed the hope that the Paris Peace Conference would make it possible "to free Ireland." He was one of the advocates of Neighbor Day, for stimulating fraternity and community spirit among Americans. In a proclamation he designated June 12 for this observance.

Born in Baltimore, Md., of Irish parents, July 23, 1834, James Gibbons spent his youth in Ireland, but when he was a lad of 14 years his family returned to America, settled in New Orleans where he acted as "punctual grocer's boy."

"I look back on those early days of hard work with pride," he said in speaking of his boyhood. "I am a firm believer in the school of hard and honest labor."

His ambition for the priesthood began in those early days. At 21 he began preparations for his service in the Roman Catholic church. Graduating with distinguished honors from Historic St. Charles College in Maryland, he pursued his studies at the seminary of St. Sulpice and St. Mary's University in Baltimore.

"The average American is a lover of peace," he often remarked. "He stands for peace at home and abroad. Let us hope that international disputes will soon be decided not by standing armies, but by permanent courts of arbitration."

At the close of the Civil War Father Gibbons became private secretary to Archbishop Spalding and was appointed coadjutor of the diocese. Through strength of character he rapidly won his way. He was elected assistant chancellor to the second plenary council at Baltimore in 1866. Two years later, by a bull of Pope Pius IX, the young priest was translated to North Carolina where he served as titular bishop and first vicar apostolic.

His record in the southern state is remarkable. He traveled among his people from the sea to the mountains, eating from bare boards and sleeping in shabby cabins. Thus, it is said, he made the personal acquaintance of every adult the Sisters of Mercy and built for them a school for negroes and whites.

"Religion teaches me that we are all children of the same Father," he once said. "We are all brothers and sisters of the same Redeemer and consequently, members of the same family. It teaches me the brotherhood of humanity."

The hardworking young bishop was sent to Richmond in 1872. He built and enlarged schools, asylums, and churches in Richmond, Petersburg, and Portsmouth. His untiring labor attracted the attention of Archbishop Bayley, of the Baltimore diocese. Through his influence, Bishop Gibbons became coadjutor. A few months later Archbishop Bayley died. Bishop Gibbons—43 years of age—became Archbishop of the diocese, then the highest dignity of the Roman Catholic church in the United States.

As Archbishop he headed the delegation of American prelates to Rome in 1883. He outlined their plans for the third plenary

MORROW REFUSES TO REINSTATE J. H. EDGER

Says He Should Have Resisted Mob Until He Was Killed or Beaten Insensible

Frankfort, Ky., March 24.—Declaring that a jailer should protect a prisoner in his custody with the last ounce of strength and with all his courage and watchfulness, Governor Morrow Wednesday refused to reinstate John H. Edger, jailer of Woodford county, whom he removed from office because he was alleged to have permitted a mob to take Richard James, negro, from jail and lynch him March 12.

"It is a duty of a jailer," said Governor Morrow, "to resist a mob and not to let it take an insensibility or killed. Accepting Edger's statement as facts in the case he did nothing to defend the prisoner, asked for no help and demanded no assistance."

Edger admitted while being examined at his hearing Wednesday for reinstatement that he made no outcry or call for assistance when the mob came to his house for the keys to the jail, as he said he did not wish to be killed or have any member of his family killed in protecting a prisoner.

The hearing was an all-day session, the jailer being represented by Senator Charles H. Harris, Field McLeod and Alfred Nickols, of Versailles. Attorney General Charles I. Dawson cross-examined the witness and was assisted by Commonwealth's Attorney Victor Bradley and County Attorney W. D. Jasse, Woodford county. The hearing was in the office of Governor Morrow.

LOCAL MEN CALLED TO BINGHAM CONFAB

Judge Bingham has been interesting himself in helping out the tobacco growers find a market for their crop at profitable prices. Among those invited to attend the meeting from this section are Messrs. Tom Curtis and W. A. Archulete.

Advocate Answers Mossbacks

Danville is preparing to pave some more of her streets this summer. Several of the streets proposed are in the most desirable residence sections of town, with the handsomest and most costly homes located thereon. Some of the wealthiest folks of the capital of Boyle own those homes. They can well afford to pay for better streets and to make a better city, but, strangely, they are the ones who are protesting the most vociferously against providing better thoroughfares at this time. In response to one of them who went into print with his protest, the Danville Advocate makes a reply that is exactly to the point and is well worth reading. It applies just about as forcefully here in Richmond as it does in Danville, as an unanswerable answer to mossbacks, wherever located, who seek to hinder the progress and upbuilding of their hometown. Here's what the Danville paper says in part. Read it:

It is nothing unusual for many property holders to oppose public improvements. The laying of both brick and concrete sidewalks in Danville was as vigorously opposed as the streets; installing a water system in Danville brought forth the most vigorous protests; the installation of the sanitary sewer system as will be remembered, was most vigorously fought, but these improvements were made because the majority of the people favored them.

Had the minority won, Danville people would have been walking on mud sidewalks, drinking stagnant water out of cisterns and fighting the ravages of disease occasioned by the lack of an adequate sanitary sewer system.

The noted physicians declare that no greater menace to health can be found than dust; Danville in the past has been noted for the dusty streets. Therefore, if there is anything in medical science, dustless streets in Danville will protect the public health and in every way make this a better town to live in.

We do not deny that public improvements at times fall heavily upon certain property holders but it is an outstanding fact that on the good streets, property values are the highest, so that any property holders who prefer a dust-infested street, can readily dispose of his property on the better street at a quick sale, and purchase on a less expensive street, but we contend that no property holder has the right to stand out against progress and public improvement and measures which will safeguard the public health.

Good streets and good roads are the greatest boon to civilization. Statistics show that good roads do more to improve citizenship than even good schools. Every state in the union and the national government are bending every effort to improve the public roads of the nation. Every owner of an automobile must pay a heavy tax for road improvement.

The good road movement is assuming equal proportions with the better schools movement, because the two go hand in hand for the general welfare and for the making of better citizens.

Who can say that Danville today would not be in the throes of an epidemic of typhoid fever or some other plague had not the majority taken time by the forelock and installed adequate water and sewer systems?

The rapidly increasing population of almost every community demand these safeguards. A town in Ohio only a few months ago due to insufficient water supply, suffered an epidemic of typhoid fever. There were 1,100 cases at one time and the outbreak was not suppressed until the entire force of the Ohio State Board of Health took the situation in hand.

In the light of the wonderful effects vaccination has had in the eradication of smallpox, only recently the parents of school children in various sections of the state had to be arrested before they would permit their children to be protected against this dreadful malady.

It is a strange fact, but it is true, that after fine schools have been provided, some parents through truant officers must be forced to send their children to school. But the majority is in control and the majority not only in Danville, but throughout the nation, is in control of better schools, better streets, better roads, better housing conditions, better community service, and better sanitary safeguards and the sportsmanlike thing for the hopeless minority to do is to unite and as one body forward their congratulations and board the band wagon of public progress and public improvement.

If You Want to Be Postmaster

Kentucky postmasters and those who want to be postmaster may be interested to know that they both have a chance. The Cincinnati Enquirer on Sunday had some dope regarding Ohio postmasters and it is thought probable that the same will hold good in regard to Kentucky, too. Here is what it said:

Ohio postmasters will be interested to know that President Harding and his political advisors, among them Postmaster General Will H. Hays, have reached a tentative agreement regarding appointment of postmasters under the new administration. Specific ideas relative to the merit system have not been outlined, but those who have talked with Mr. Hays say the postmaster general is inclined to favor competitive examinations, open to Republicans and Democrats, with instructions to the examining board to certify the names of the three applicants making the highest grade from whom the selection would be made by the congressman for recommendation to the president. This would give the Republicans a certain leeway in getting party workers in these desirable places, and still retain the features of the merit system. Senator Frank B.

Willis, of Ohio, announced that no attempt would be made to dislodge Democratic incumbents of federal positions in Ohio until the expiration of their terms, except in cases of those guilty of having circulated "scurrilous" reports during the 1920 campaign. Evidence that investigators are at work in Ohio running down such charges is seen in the first batch of reports received at the senator's office.

You and Robinson Crusoe

One of the most persistent advertisers in the history of success was Robinson Crusoe.

He knew what he wanted—a ship—and he put up an advertisement for one.

He hung a shirt on a pole at the top of his island; that, in the language of the sea, was plain to every seafaring man.

The circulation was small, there was no other medium, but Crusoe kept at it, despite the fact that he got no inquiries for a long time.

In the end he got what he wanted, was happy, and his name and fame have come down through the ages!

Suppose Robinson Crusoe had taken down his signal after a year and declared: "Advertising doesn't pay?" Where would his story be now?

Or suppose something had whispered in his ear: "No use, Robinson—these are pretty hard times. Nobody is buying or sailing any ships while money's so tight. Better cut out your advertising until times get good again."

Do you need help in planning your advertising? Would you welcome assistance in the preparation of your advertising copy? Do you need the services of a trained copy writer?

The Daily Register offers you its service department which will do any one or all of these things.

HOW WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

May Escape the Dreaded Sufferings of that Period by Taking Mrs. Block's Advice

Hopkins, Minn.—"During Change of Life I had hot flashes and suffered for two years. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the paper and got good results from taking it. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish this fact as a testimonial."—Mrs. ROBERT BLOCK, Box 342, Hopkins, Minn.

It has been said that not one woman in a thousand passes this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, sinking spells, spots before the eyes, dizzy spells, nervousness, are only a few of the symptoms. Every woman at this age should profit by Mrs. Block's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., about your health. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

AT THE MOVIES

Many have asked if the books used by Mary Miles Minter as a blind girl in "Eyes of the Heart" to be shown at the local theatres Friday, are the "real article." The answer is decidedly affirmative. They were borrowed from a large institution for the blind near Los Angeles. The Braille (raised letter) books are exactly similar to those used by Helen Keller and others to make up for their lack of sight.

A beautiful love story, a deep intrigue, and a strange, glamorous, colorful setting found in New York by delving into the mysterious Chinese underworld, combine themselves in "The Money-Changers," said to be a soul-stirring drama. It is a Benjauni Hampton-Pathe production, written for the screen by Upton Sinclair, and will be seen at the local theatres Monday.

Oddities in Coats

WHEN coats left the straight and narrow way of fitted lines to wander in paths vague and indefinite, they were sure to land in new places. This they have done, presenting many models for spring that are interesting and original as well as attractive. In spite of vagaries of style, these new ideas have been worked out in a practical way, so that they are not forgetful of the chief end of coats, which is service.

Two among these new arrivals are shown in the illustration above, both conforming to the season's demand for ample flowing lines, capacious sleeves, and length that envelopes the figure from chin to ankles, or at least somewhere near the ankles. The coat at the right goes even farther and is provided with a draped hood that is capable of covering the hat. It is a handsome model in a light, sturdy coating, that is rainproof, very practical for all-round wear in springtime. Its fullness is disposed of in plaits, so that it hangs straight at the back, with loose belt across the front, and easy raglan sleeves.

The model at the left is as much like a mantle or dolman as it is like a coat, and utilizes one of the soft, pile fabrics that make so strong a place for themselves in the esteem of women. It hangs in plaits at the bottom and features the most capacious of sleeves along with the most original of collars.

Blame Firebug for Church Fire

Columbia, Ky., March 24.—Dissatisfaction among the members of the congregation with reference to retaining the pastor is said to have caused the destruction by fire of the church house, known as Absher Chapel, near Pellety, Adair county.

The report reached here when a bloodhound was dispatched to the scene of the fire, but failed to pick up the trail of the incendiary. There has been no preaching in the church for some time, there being so much confusion among the members that the building has been closed to services.

Women Jurors Soak*Man on Whisky Charge

Whitesburg, Ky., March 24.—The second woman jury for this county heard a whisky charge against George Rodgers, a former policeman at Blackey, this county, and assessed a heavy fine and jail sentence. During the proceeding County Judge Fess Whitaker assessed fines totaling several hundred dollars for contempt. Rodgers is said to have insulted the court when he was questioned as to where he obtained the whisky with which he was intoxicated. Judge Whitaker also affixed a $5,000 peace bond for Rodgers, and Rodgers was put in the Letcher county jail.

Morrow Pardons Veteran*on Pledge to Aid Mother

Frankfort, Ky., March 24.—Maburn Spradling, Lexington, former soldier, was pardoned on recommendation of Circuit Judge Kerr. He has been in jail and prison three years now. The case was investigated by Joseph P. Byers, commissioner of public institutions. Prosecuting officers, Governor Morrow said, are convinced that liquor caused Spradling downfall. The pardon is conditional upon his going straight and supporting his aged mother.

"Pussyfoot" For Dry Enforcer

Washington, March 24.—"Pussyfoot" Johnson, whose efforts to turn England dry cost him an eye, is being boomed by an element of the dries in the United States for appointment as federal prohibition enforcement officer to succeed John F. Kramer.

The Anti-Saloon League, as an organization, is not backing him, as the league makes it a point never to put forward one of its men for appointive office, but if he should resign from the league there would be no bar to his acceptance of the job now held by Mr. Kramer.

"Pussyfoot" made his first reputation as a dry enforcement officer years ago when he was with the Indian service. It is said he kept every section of the service where he operated as dry as a bone.

MEMORIES

I feel much at a loss, I truly must confess,
When my thoughts revert in sweet tenderness
Back to the stirring times in sunny France
When the thundering of the big guns rocked the wide expanse,
And the hurtling sixteen-inchers "threw" frantic capers in the air,
These lending romance and animation everywhere;
When we marched in rugged columns under fully a ton of "junk"

Down the winding chalk-white roads, no one daring to flunk,
Till the calm of night had descended over village, hill and plain,
Then to doff our packs, a starry night's repose to gain,
Out in the crystal open, close by the silent, solemn shrine,
While the cooling breeze played a serenade in the silhouetted pine,

And a never-ending caravan of mud-grimed "poilus" filed steadily by,
Each smoking his faithful pipe, and not afraid to die;
When we sped across the verdant plains, from Brest to old Bordeaux,

In a thrilling, squeaking, jostling "forty hommes and eight cheveaux,"

With straw a-plenty on which to lounge and be at perfect ease,
Awaiting the fun and the excitement along the Argonne and the Meuse,
And to know that these times have winged into the mist of eternity,

Gone, receding farther, never more to return to cheer the heart of me.

LEOPARD MOTHERED WILD BOY IN INDIA

Here's Rival to Kipling's Mowgli,
Which He Said a She-Wolf
Adopted

(By Associated Press)
London, March 23.—A wild boy resembling in some respects Kipling's character, "Mowgli," who was suckled by a she-wolf and grew up to be leader of the pack, has been found in remote section of India, according to a story told in the Times. In this case, however, the boy is reputed to have been kidnapped by a leopard. He has been recaptured and his father is now keeping a sharp eye on him to see that he does not run away to the woods.

The Times credits the tale to Stewart Baker, who was recently in the undeveloped country around the Cachari Hills on the northwest frontier of India where he was in charge of road-mending. It is customary in that region for the villagers to mend roads instead of paying taxes. Mr. Baker asked a villager why he did not do his share of road-mending.

The man replied that he was afraid to leave his village. His wife having died a short time previously, he had no one to take care of his little "wild son," who, in his absence, might run into the jungle and get lost. Mr. Baker paid the villager a visit and found with him a child about seven years of age, with innumerable white scars of tiny cuts and scratches all over its body.

The child's father told him that five years before, the villagers of Cachari had killed two leopard cubs. The mother leopard had prowled about the jungle bordering on the village. A few days later the mother of the child left it lying on a cloth while she went away to reap rice. In her absence the mother leopard carried the child off. The villagers searched for it but could find no trace of it.

Some three years later a sportsman killed a leopard in the jungle. He told the villagers that the leopard had two cubs. They searched the jungle and found the two cubs and with them the missing child.

It ran on all fours, quite fast, dodged and hid in bushes with great agility and skill and bit and fought with everyone who tried to lay hold of it. It tore to pieces and ate with extraordinary quickness any village fowl that came its way.

Says His Prescription
Has Powerful Influence
Over Rheumatism

Mr. James M. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind, he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

Fighters To Meet On Percentage Basis Only

New York, March 24—The half million dollar purse for which Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier were to have fought on July 2, has been withdrawn, and the heavyweights will box on a percentage basis when they engage in their world's championship battle. This announcement was made here today by Promoter Tex Rickard, after several conferences with representatives of the principals. Under the new agreement, which takes the form of an amendment to the original contract signed in this city last November, the pugilists will receive 60 per cent of the gross receipts. Of this sum the winner will take 60 per cent and the loser 40 per cent. The contract originally provided that Dempsey, as champion, was to receive $300,000 and Carpentier, as challenger, $200,000.

CARDINAL GIBBONS

(Continued from 1st Page) council to be held the next year. Pope Leo XIII appointed him to preside over the council. He directed the enactment of many new decrees which were favorably approved by the ecclesiastical authorities.

The brilliant executive ability of Archbishop Gibbons was immediately recognized. He was created a Cardinal, a prince of the church, a quarter century after he had entered the priesthood. This was in 1886—he was then 52 years of age.

The impressive ceremonies took place in his home city and cathedral in Baltimore. In the presence of hierarchy of the church, Cardinal Gibbons was clothed in the insignia of the office. He arrived in Rome the following year and received the apostolic and admission into the college of cardinals, the twenty-fifth in succession.

Cardinal Gibbons celebrated the centenary of the founding of the Catholic hierarchy in the United States in 1888. He convened the first national congress of Catholic laymen in the United States in the same year. He laid the cornerstone of the Catholic University in Washington, and was its chancellor since its foundation. He was the first Roman Catholic prelate in the United States to take part in the election of a Pope, casting his ballot for Pius X.

The scholarship and statesmanship of Cardinal Gibbons has been recognized by theologians of all creeds.

"Religion," he said shortly before his death, "is the only solid basis for society. Religion is to society what cement is to a modern building; it makes all parts compact and coherent. The teachings of Christ have been the basis of all Christian legislation for nearly 2,000 years and continue to be the light and guide for hundreds of millions of souls. Neither Solon nor Lycurgus nor Justinian nor Napoleon nor any other framer of laws ever exerted a tithe of the influence of which the gospel of Christ exercises on the human races."

The last days of the Cardinal were spent among his friends in his native Baltimore. He was a picturesque figure on the streets. Notwithstanding his high office, his eminence, was one of the most democratic of Americans. During his daily walks about the city, he received the respectful salutations of persons of all faiths responding with his genial and cordial smile whether to a policeman or a distinguished financier. Cardinal Gibbons retained to the last a keen interest on sociology.

"We are confronted by at least three great evils," he said in a recent interview. "They are polygamy and divorce; imperfect education, and the tendency of our women to become like men and less womanly. Woman occupies the throne in the home. She could not seek another one. That has been proved time and again in history and that is why I am opposed to woman suffrage."

The trend of the times and the powers of the press as a protector of society greatly impressed Cardinal Gibbons during the last years of his life.

"The power of the press is incalculable," he said in speaking of recent developments. "Its argus, almost searchlight eye, is ever looking for the weak spot in humanity, to throw it into cold prominence. As a rule the public exposures of public men are now public benefactions. The sheltering of popular idols has of late become a thing of almost daily occurrence. It is a sad thing to contemplate, but it is an inevitable condition."

Say Use Trap Nests

Washington, March 24—The hen that did the cackling may not have laid the egg, government farm experts assert. They advise farmers to use trap nests in order to pin the cackler down to facts in the way of eggs. By holding a hen on the nest until released, the announcement said, it was possible to keep tab on the good layers, regardless of the fuss raised by some hens on false pretenses.
